TITLE: Communications Procedures to Competitors

COMMUNICATION PROCEDURES TO COMPETITORS

Due to the Covid 19 pandemic, new forms of communication will be used in this event, in order to avoid as much physical contact between people as possible.

Procedures for communicating with competitors during the event will be remote through www.racingrulesofsailing.org application.

The traditional official notice board will be replaced by a digital notice board available in the application.

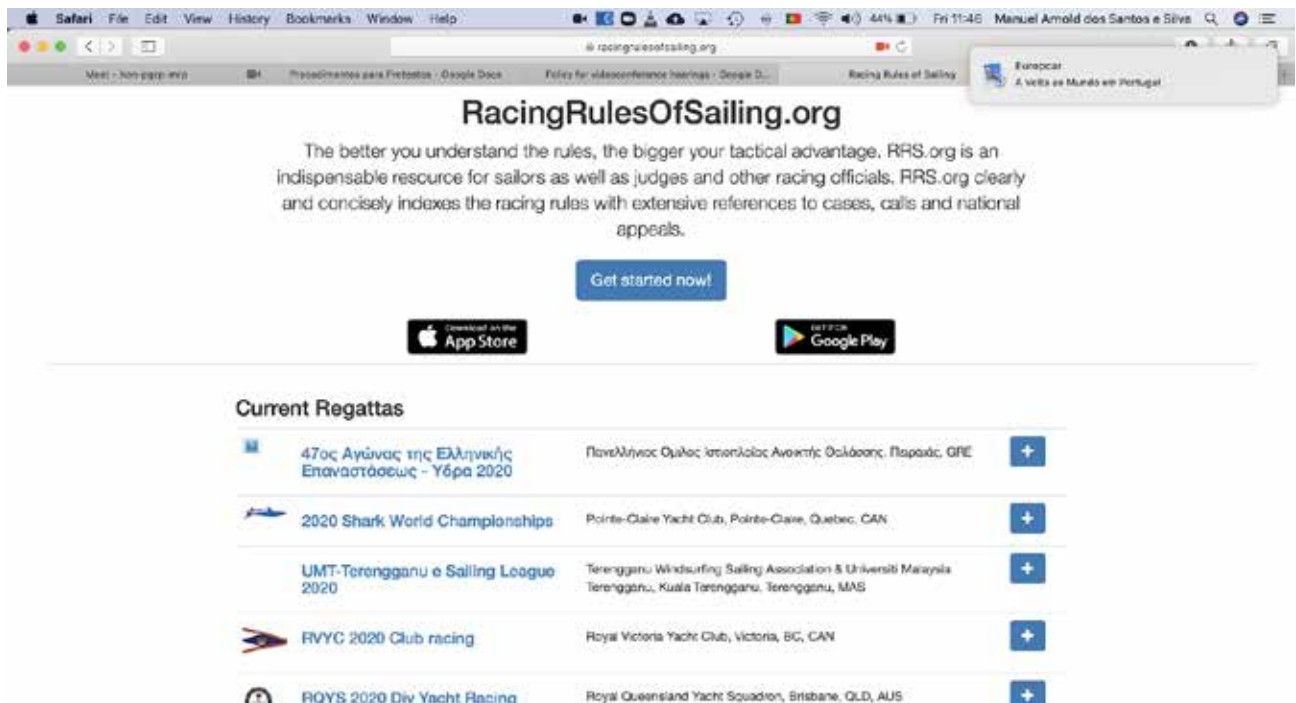

As usual, this will be the official means of communication between the Organizing Authority, the race committee, the International Jury and competitors. Therefore, all documents governing the event will be made available in the application.

It is strongly recommended that competitors become familiar with this application prior to the championship. The Organizing Authority is available to answer any enquiries that may arise.

The procedures related to the International Jury will be published in a specific document, which will be available at the digital notice board.

The platform www.racingrulesofsailing.org is available in two ways:

- the web homepage, where the event is shown located in “Current Regattas” section

RacingRulesOfSailing.org

The better you understand the rules, the bigger your tactical advantage. RRS.org is an indispensable resource for sailors as well as judges and other racing officials. RRS.org clearly and concisely indexes the racing rules with extensive references to cases, calls and national appeals.
